

Problem-solving former Marine

This former Marine picked up a real estate license but finds he would really like to see people every day. He could take on temporary work or will interview for a permanent role; something with customer interaction would be to your benefit!

Brandon's skill set and knowledge includes QuickBooks, MS Office, Google Suite, and SharePoint. He is a team player, a problem-solver, will be able to communicate with others at any level, and will show up in a suit and tie if you need it.

His pay expectations and work schedule requirements are very reasonable, if you don't have full-time hours or a big salary to offer. However, if the right opportunity presents itself, he will gladly make the long-term commitment to a team.
